Editorial: Welcome to the new look ACE Info, which we hope you will find more attractive and accessible. It marks the end of a particularly busy period of time for the ACE, the highlight of which was the highly successful conference on the topic of Designing the Future: The Market and Quality of Life that was held in Brussels on the 10th April (see article below). The year has also seen some further evolutions in the way the work of the ACE is organised that should, it is hoped, permit the ACE to be more outwardly visible (see article on the reform of Thematic Area 3). Your comments and suggestions about ACE Info are always welcome.

This edition is also available in French.

The Architects Brussels Statement for the Future Launched after the ACE Conference

On the 10th April last, the ACE Conference entitled Designing for the Future: The Market and Quality of Life took place at The Flagey Building (see image to the left) in Brussels. It was attended by about 400 participants, the majority of whom were non-architects. The feedback that the ACE has received to date has been entirely positive and the success of the Conference has given added momentum to the policy objectives of the ACE and greatly enhanced its reputation. In the General Assembly of the ACE that immediately followed the Conference, a set of conclusions, known as the Architects Brussels Statement for the Future was adopted. This stresses, to mention just a few elements, that "...there is a need to better understand why the market does not fully respond to the desire of citizens for a high quality built environment – and to address these constraints one by one". It also affirms that "The true needs of citizens must be anticipated and long-term viable solutions devised to respond to them for which economic aspects are decided on the basis of life cycle costing". Furthermore it advocates that a "...reform of the public procurement process must be devised in which quality outcomes become the main goal over and above lowest cost" and it stresses that "...it must be recognised by all built environment professionals that sustainability is an absolute. A challenge that waits to be faced is the need to retrofit our cities, devising policies and techniques at the scale of the challenge faced that will lead our existing cities to a sustainable future". Finally the statement also underlines that "...cultural quality and diversity provide dynamism, identity and real attractiveness to places resulting in economic, social and environmental benefits".

A short report of the proceedings has been prepared and circulated to participants and more widely disseminated. Documents relating to the Conference including the full text of the Statement mentioned above and the report of the proceedings can be downloaded from the ACE website at the following address:

ACE Campaign to Raise the European Legal Minimum Level of Architectural Qualifications

At its General Assembly, the Member Organisations of the ACE agreed to launch a concerted campaign to seek a revision of the relevant section of the Professional Qualifications Directive (PQD) (2005/36/EC) in order to increase the legally required minimum duration of studies from four to five years. This campaign is built on the fact that the vast majority of courses that lead to a qualification as architect within the EU are already of five years duration and that it is the official policy of the ACE and its Member Organisations that the minimum duration of studies should be five years. This position is consistent with international practice as both UNESCO and the UIA also have official policies that require a minimum duration of studies of five years. The ACE position has been worked out in cooperation with the European Association for Architectural Education, which fully supports the campaign. Furthermore, and most importantly, the Slovenian Presidency of the EU supports the campaign and it has brought the matter to the official level by putting the question on the agenda of the recent Member States Coordinators Group (Qualifications) meeting (held on the 22nd April) at which architectural qualifications were discussed. First indications are that the Member States present broadly support the proposal, but believe that it may be premature to revise the Directive as it has not yet been fully transposed into national laws across the EU. However, the Commission must present a report in 2012 on the implementation whereby, in effect, it means that the process of assessing the PQD must start as early as 2009 and so the ACE remains convinced that the timing of the start of the campaign is timely.

In a related move, recalling in particular that architectural education is not harmonised throughout Europe and having regard to the importance of professional practical experience, the ACE has been advocating for the establishment of a sub-group of the Coordinators that will provide expert advice on whether or not notified qualifications meet the requirements of the PQD. ACE Info will give regular updates over the coming issues on the progress of the campaign. It may be of interest to consult the list of contact points for the PQD in order to contact the Coordinators from the various EU Member States. It can be accessed at:

ACE Declaration on Architecture and Sustainability

During its last meeting the ACE General Assembly adopted the ACE Declaration on Architecture and Sustainability as a working document for the 2008 UIA Congress scheduled to be held in Turin from the 29th June to the 3rd July. The theme of the Congress is "Transmitting Architecture" and it is intended that the ACE document will serve as a basis for a discussion during a Workshop that will be organised during the third day of the Congress, whose focus will be on "Hope", and it is anticipated that the ACE Declaration may eventually become a substantial contribution to the final Declaration of the Congress (see also below).

ACE MATTERS

Changes in the ACE Member Organisations

Since the last edition of ACE Info, the Secretariat has received notifications about changes in two of its Member Organisations as follows:

The Union of Estonian Architects (UEA) has announced that Ike Volkov was recently appointed Chairman for the next two years and that his term of office commenced on the 14th February last. Two new Vice-Chairmen, Inga Raukas and Indrek Allman were also recently elected. The mandate for each office is two-years.

The Kamra Tal-Periti (KTP) of Malta has also confirmed its new Council for 2008. David Felice was ratified as President and two new members were co-opted onto Council. The full list can be seen at:

www.ktpmalta.com/aboutKTP/organization.php

The ACE at External Events

The ACE is frequently represented at external events and conferences by its President, Members of its Executive Board, Chairmen of Work Groups and/or the Secretariat. These activities often go unnoticed, but are very important to the pursuit of the policies of the ACE. Since the last report in ACE Info, the following events were particularly relevant to the dissemination of ACE Policy:

ACE-UIA Cooperation

In February the President and Secretary General of the ACE attended meetings of the Region I and Region II of the UIA (International Union of Architects) that took place in Torino and in Istanbul respectively. It provided opportunities to review the implementation of the Memorandum of Understanding signed between the ACE and the UIA in 2006. Notably in that context a joint cooperation project in connection with the upcoming 2008 UIA World Congress scheduled in Torino this Summer (29 June-3 July) was reviewed.

Housing Solutions for an Ageing Population

The Secretary general, Alain Sagne, attended a conference on the 16th April 2008 in the European Parliament organised by the Inter-Group Urban-Logement in partnership with CECODHAS, the European Liaison Committee for Social Housing. The aim the conference was to have a state of the art on ageing and housing needs through European expertise and presentation of innovative practices in the field of housing and ageing.

50th Anniversary of the UEPC

Alain Sagne participated in the celebrations of the 50th year of the European Union of Developers and House Builders (UEPC), that was held on 24th April at the headquarters of the KBC Bank in Brussels. Noteworthy was the presence of Mr Guy Verhofstadt, former Prime Minister of Belgium who was among the speakers to address the event. It is recalled that the President of the UEPC, Mr Jaroslav

Szanajca (Poland) was a speaker at the ACE Conference Designing for the Future: The Market and Quality of Life held on the 10th April 2008 in Brussels.

Urban Development Group (UDG) – Member States Officials

Alain Sagne attended, by invitation, the last meeting of the UDG organised by the Slovenian Presidency in Brdo, Slovenia, on the 19th March 2008 where he represented both the European Forum for Architectural Policies (EFAP) and the ACE. On that occasion he reported on various activities carried out by the EFAP as a follow up to the Leipzig Charter on Sustainable European Cities. He also informed the participants on the programme of the ACE Conference in Brussels (that was distributed), at which notably the Slovenian Minister of Environment and Spatial Planning and President-in-Office of the EU Council of Ministers, Mr Janez Podobnik, was going to be a speaker. (See lead article above)

ACE Events and Meetings in May and June 2008:

Eleventh meeting of the ACE-EAAE Joint Working Party – Brussels – 23rd May Work Group Insurance meeting – Brussels – 5th June (tbc)
Work group Education meeting – Brussels – 6th June
Fourth Executive Board meeting in 2008 – Ljubljana – 14th June

OTHER MATTERS

Transposition of the Services Directive – Meeting of the ESP

During its last meeting, the European Services Platform (ESP) - co-sponsored by the European Services Forum and BusinessEurope and currently Chaired by Alain Sagne of the ACE – Mr Martin Frohn, Deputy-Head of the Services Unit at DG Markt, European Commission, reported on the state of play of the implementation of the Services Directive by the Member States. This showed that progress is varied across the EU with some countries making significant progress and others not very active at all. Of note is the fact that the Commission is pro-actively assisting Member States in the transposition process and is engaged in a series of bi-lateral meetings with each of them over the three-year transposition period. An interesting exchange of views took place with the participants after his presentation.

For information on the transposition see the recent report by Eurochambres at:

<http://www.eurochambres.be/Content/Default.asp?PageID=146>

PQD - Infringement Proceedings Launched Against Member States

In relation to the transposition of the Professional Qualifications Directive (PQD) (2005/36/EC), the European Commission has sent reasoned opinions to three Member States – Belgium, the Czech Republic and Spain – and it has referred eight countries – Austria, Belgium, Cyprus, Spain, France, Greece, Ireland and Luxembourg – to the Court of Justice. This is a clear indication of the slow process of transposition of this important directive and of the Commissions' determination to see that it fully and completely transposed into national law.

Kallenbach Report on Follow-up to Territorial Agenda and the Leipzig Charter Adopted

On the 21st February last, the European Parliament adopted, by a large majority, the own-initiative report prepared by Gisela Kallenbach (Greens/EFA, Germany) on behalf of the Committee on Regional Development on the follow-up to the Territorial Agenda of the EU and the Leipzig Charter on Sustainable European Cities. The report takes a stance in favour of "... holistic solutions adjusted to the specific situations of the regions." It also stresses that an integrated approach to regional planning is necessary to allow regions and towns to adjust to the current challenges of European regional development such as repopulation of rural areas, urban sprawl and energy consumption. To read the full report, go to:

<http://www.europarl.europa.eu/sides/getDoc.do?pubRef=-//EP//TEXT+TA+P6-TA-2008-0069+0+DOC+XML+V0//EN&language=EN>

Ten New Eurocode Standards to Improve Competitiveness of Building Sector

The European Commission held a conference in Brussels on the 19th and 20th February last that aimed to transfer background knowledge and expertise on ten new Eurocode Standards that have been published by the CEN on the design of buildings, to national trainers. These ten standards (EN1990-EN1999) will provide a common approach for the design of buildings and other civil engineering works as of 2010. The aim is to boost business by removing technical barriers to trade in construction products and services. The Eurocodes cover matters such as fire endurance, bridge design, security, ease of maintenance, strength, durability etc. A system of nationally set parameters, which take account of geographical, geological and climatic differences, leaves scope at national level for determining the appropriate level of security. For more information, go to:

<http://eurocodes.jrc.ec.europa.eu/showpage.php?id=332>

EU Opens Free Trade Talks with Ukraine

On the 18th February last, the EU Trade Commissioner, Peter Mandelson and the Ukrainian President Vicotr Yushchenko, opened negotiations on a bilateral free trade agreement (FTA) between the EU and Ukraine. This followed the decision, taken by the World Trade Organisation (WTO) on the 5th February, to let Ukraine join the WTO. These negotiations are important and may open the door for the accession of Ukraine to the EU. The ACE will be tracking developments in order to see if architectural services will be specifically mentioned during the negotiations so as take appropriate steps to follow up with profession-to-profession talks as it has done in the past with countries such as Mexico, the USA and Canada.

Amendment of ERDF on Eligibility of Energy Investment Expenditure on Housing

On the 6th February last, the President of the European Commission, José Manuel Barroso, announced an amendment to the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF) regulation that responds to requests that the rules for the eligibility of funding for energy investment in housing be extended beyond the EU-12 countries. Given the high political priority that is being given to climate change across the EU, it is argued that extending the eligibility rules would assist all of the EU to achieve its ambitions in this area. The announcement made was that the Commission intends to bring forward a proposal, but that its final shape has to account for the complexity of the situation and for the fact that the ERDF can be used for a range of issues already including giving support to research and innovation actions, the construction of infrastructure and in areas of sustainable transport etc. In the meantime the Commission encourages Member States to co-finance energy efficiency and renewable energy uses for buildings as these can make a large contribution to realising the Lisbon and Gothenburg objectives.

Metka Cernelc – New President of the URBACT II Monitoring Committee

Metka Cernelc, representing Slovenia (where she works at the Ministry for Environment and Spatial Planning) and who is very active in the work of the European Forum on Architectural Policies, recently took the reins of the URBACT II Monitoring Committee. She is an expert in town planning and urban development. During her term in office (2008), she is keen to represent the interests of all cities across the 29 States involved in URBACT II, irrespective of where they are based. It is expected that this period will be a crucial one for the EU-12 Member States as they become fully integrated into the URBACT programmes and so it is symbolic that it is Slovenia that holds the Presidency for 2008.
