

UIA, PARTNER IN THE BUILD-UP EXHIBITION

From 6 to 10 February 2007, the BUILD UP EXPO will take place in Milan. Targeting all stakeholders in architecture and building, this exhibition proposes a dynamic and innovative concept oriented toward communications and international exchange - a network-expo and a global showcase of new construction markets. With the theme United projects for building, BUILD UP hopes to encourage openness to competitive and innovative solutions for the development of cities and territories. BUILD UP will also be an immense, global forum on architecture, and a platform for debates that aim to improve the quality of the built environment entitled Non-stop architects! in which Nikos Fintikakis and Geraint John, UIA Work Programmes Directors will participate.

IDOLS, GODS, AND MONSTERS

On 8 & 9 February 2007, within the framework of BUILD UP, Milan will host an international conference on cities dedicated to the theme Idols, gods, and monsters: metropolises, cities, villages, reasons. The first day of debates will focus on the village witch-doctor and will be animated by administrators, philosophers, and cultural and academic authorities; the second day will offer presentations by architects who intervene in the urban environment, notably Jaime Lerner, UIA Past President and Josep Llop Torne, UIA Work Programme Director, under the theme visible city, liveable city. Giancarlo Ius, UIA Vice-President, is a member of the conference's scientific committee. This two-day event is organised by l'ARCA Edizioni, and supported by the UIA and OCCAM (Observatory of cultural and audio-visual communication).

FRANCE

ARCHITECTURE 2007

The Order of Architects is launching for 2007 its project entitled “Tomorrow’s France needs architects”. The project is structured around three main themes: individual and collective housing, the city and problem areas, and communicating architectural culture. It is based on a study of the needs and expectations of inhabitants. According to the President of the Order, Bernard Figiel, “architects intend to assume their responsibilities in the context of ‘living together’ and to be recognized as major actors in the area”. In order to launch the debate on the solutions that architecture can bring to specific demands, the CNOA has created a blog where citizens, political authorities, experts, and architects can exchange ideas and points of view.

HABITAT REGION I

Bill Reed

IN MEMORIAM: BILL REED

We learned with much sadness of the sudden passing away of Bill Reed last October in Stockholm. An active and respected member of the UIA Habitat work programme, he served as alternate as well as titular member of the UIA Council between 1990 and 2002.

"Through his study of the issues concerning habitat, Bill always sought to underline the essential human values. He was a cherished friend, the 'conscience' of our group, a model of determination, wisdom, and patience ... not a single decision or text produced by our group escaped his scrutiny."

Michel Kalt, Director of the UIA work programme Habitat - Region I

LIVING STEEL 2
